* _Elements_ _20_ _!_ Elements is a free alternative to Photoshop and is available in both desktop and portable versions, with 10.0 being the latest release. It's a solid program that has many of Photoshop's tools. Like Photoshop, Elements offers various tool palettes and dialog boxes along with some of the same features in the utilities. Elements allows you to do what you need on any size image. You can crop, resize, and rotate, and adjust the brightness, contrast, and color with one feature. * _Corel PhotoPaint_ _2002_ _and_ _2005_ _are alternatives to Photoshop. _Corel PhotoPaint_ offers very similar tools to Photoshop with the capability of operating in layers to keep the editing process transparent and easily undoable. You can apply a filter to a layer. PhotoPaint does not have as many features as Photoshop, but it is very powerful. Its closest competitor is Photoshop Elements. * _Photoshop_ _CS_ _-6_ _and_ _7_ _are the most advanced versions of Photoshop. _Both are capable of handling many of the high-level post-processing tasks, such as advanced image retouching and compositing, that the average photo hobbyist can do. Photoshop 7 also adds features such as the ability to resize and rotate at the same time, which is not really possible in Elements, Adobe Photoshop CS-6 and Photoshop Elements. It's also a good image editor. * _Adobe Photoshop_ _Photo_ _Editing_ _CS_ _-5_ _is a budget version of Photoshop that is extremely portable. It's available in both a download and DVD installation mode. It is the closest Photoshop alternative to Elements or Picasa. * The GIMP is another free software application that can do most of the same things as Photoshop. It is highly customizable and easily installable on a wide variety of operating systems.

Information Breadcrumb Trail Success Stories Springfield The Springfield Web project began a decade ago as a collaborative effort between the City of Springfield and the Springfield Public Library. The goal was to improve and restore the web presence of the local and online government. The City and the Library partnered with us to accomplish this goal, which involved modernizing the City's web presence and developing a new website that would bring Springfield online and make it easy for citizens to access City data. In the years since the Springfield Web project was launched, the City's website continues to evolve and expand, with new features and content added every year. Today, the Springfield Web portal reaches more than 86,000 unique visitors a month, and is the key source of information for the City and public services. It provides easy access to all the City's data and easily connects to other City websites. It also makes available media and images, documentation, and other images, maps, and other data to create an interactive web experience. The new Springfield website was re-branded to support the new branding that the City has developed in recent years. It includes a new logo and a new appearance, which emphasizes accessibility and user-friendliness. The site also provides a one-stop shop for residents to find City services, information, and other resources. A key component of the Springfield Web project was building a website that could be accessible on a range of devices, such as desktop, tablet, and mobile phones. A concept was developed called "desktop first", which meant that the City would build the website with a mobile-friendly design in mind from the beginning. This allows for the website to be responsive in terms of small screen sizes and to also work well on larger screens. As a result, the website is easy to navigate, displays consistently across all devices, and is clear on larger screens and in various view angles. The content on the Springfield website can be accessed from any device using any web browser. Search and use the site in a variety of ways, such as simply looking at information and resources, to accessing the interactive and responsive news aggregator, or to activate a Trip Planner. The City of Springfield recognizes the benefits of the Springfield Web project and is thankful to the Library and MTSU for their ongoing collaboration. The project has also benefited from the support of various City departments, including Public Works and IT, and the Library Services Department, which maintains
